SAG / AFTRA

Ms. Landis is proving to be a truly versatile talent in Hollywood, bringing her skills to big, small and computer screens. Having worked with fantastic directors like Christopher Columbus, John Wells and Peter Tolan, she has brought to life some fun characters including a goth dominatrix, a klepto call girl, a psychic mother out for revenge, a zombie stripper, and a spoiled Malibu princess whose shrink can't even stand her. Landis displays her fearlessness and range playing all three Kartrashian sisters in the new web series KEEPING UP WITH THE KARTRASHIANS, which has earned her a Best Comedy Actress nomination at ITVFest 2011.

Growing up in rural Oregon with a homemaker Mother, and a Father who left the Amish community during his Rumspringa, no one would have guessed that Landis was destined for Hollywood. After being introduced to showbiz when her Mother took her and her brother to the set of a local Lotto commercial to be extras, Landis took her can-do attitude and landed herself an agent. She booked commercials and a few scattered films, while polishing her skills with stage work. Wanting to play in a bigger pond, she headed for Hollywood.

Since moving to Los Angeles, Landis has displayed her drive and tenacity by never sitting still. While not acting on set, she is writing, directing and producing. Her first web series MISADVENTURES IN MATCHMAKING was nominated for multiple awards on StayTuneTV.net and has reached over a half million views online. She's well on her way to exceeding those numbers with her new smash hit: KEEPING UP WITH THE KARTRASHIANS, which is an official selection of ITVFestival, The New York International Film Festival, The Beverly Hills Film TV & New Media Festival and IFQ New Media Festival.
